Student Representation and Participation in Institutional Decision Making

Career Point University (CPU) serves as a dynamic platform for students to develop vital skills such as leadership, time management, and teamwork through a range of committees and clubs. The University actively engages students, fostering their involvement in various academic as well as administrative activities. This engagement not only gives students a voice but also makes them aware of their responsibility towards the university, maintenance of discipline and the creation of a conducive learning environment.

Academic Activities: Class representatives coordinate in providing feedback within mentor groups regarding the teaching-learning process and other departmental activities. They also coordinate daily academic activities, within their respective classes. The inclusion of students empowers them and ensures that their academic needs are met effectively.

Furthermore, students are actively engaged in the planning, execution, and organization of myriad academic activities like special lectures, seminars, workshops, symposiums, and conferences. These activities serve students a platform to enhance their academic knowledge to delve into their fields of interest. Additionally, the university encourages students to actively participate in the placement cell activities to enhance their employability and prepare them for future challenges. Moreover, participating in these activities develops crucial organizational and leadership skills in students

Administrative Activities: Apart from academic pursuits, students of the University are actively engaged in the management of hostel facilities. Their cooperation and coordination are instrumental in maintaining discipline, ensuring food quality and services, and upholding hygiene standards within the hostels. This hands-on experience in hostel management enhances their practical skills and inculcates a sense of responsibility and accountability in them. Student coordinators play a pivotal role in organizing events and activities like National festivals, birth and death anniversaries of important leaders, sports festivals, cultural programs, youth festivals like IMMIX and Technovest, farewell etc. These events are not only entertaining but also serve as opportunities for students to come together, interact, and build lasting friendships.

Students of CPU are dedicated to working towards their social responsibility through various awareness programs, outreach activities, and its NSS units. These initiatives actively involve students in activities like organizing camps for blood donation, rural health & sanitation camps, and awareness campaigns for the environment. By participating in these activities, students become aware of social issues and develop empathy and responsibility towards society. They also learn the art of giving back to the community and become more socially conscious individuals.

Student representation in committees: Student coordinators at CPU conduct a variety of club activities. Through these activities, students get a platform to follow their passion, learn new skills, and connect with peers of similar interests.

Student representatives participate in addressing and resolving the grievances of students. By actively participating in the grievance cell, students learn skills of problem-solving, negotiation, and conflict resolution. Overall, the involvement of students in the grievance cell reflects the university's commitment to promoting a student-centric approach to governance and administration.

In conclusion, the student representatives of CPU in various forums play a pivotal role in enhancing the overall student experience and providing opportunities for holistic development.
